TOUR DESCRIPTION

NAZCA LINES FLIGHT FROM SAN MARTIN PORT

CLASSIC FLIGHT

08:00 h: Our representative will meet you at the designated meeting point in Paracas Downtown. You can make your way to Paracas Town using the free shuttle service offered by the cruise company. Our local guide will be waiting with a sign bearing your names. From there, you will be transported to Pisco Airport, located about 14 kilometers away.

Flight Highlights:

During the flight, marvel at vast geometric designs that some believe were ancient runways for extraterrestrial visitors. Among the highlights are:

The Astronaut: Etched on a hill slope, this figure is debated as either an astronaut or a shaman.

The Monkey: Measuring 90 meters, this figure symbolizes drought cycles and has connections to star constellations.

The Dog: A small but significant drawing, possibly representing a deity.

The Hummingbird: Perfectly preserved, this figure aligns with the summer solstice.

The Spider: Represents fertility and rain, as it appears before precipitation.

The Condor: Features a line pointing to the summer solstice sunset.

The Flamingo: The longest figure, with its beak pointing to the winter solstice sunrise.

The Parrot: A large figure surrounded by geometric designs and the Ingenio Valley.

Hands and Huarango Tree: Visible near the Pan-American Highway, with the Lizard figure partially destroyed by highway construction.

Palpa Region: Includes a bird with a face-like feature and a star-shaped stone formation.

Among the Nazca Lines, vast triangles and rectangles stretch across the desert plateau with stunning precision. Their scale and alignment continue to puzzle experts—were they ancient runways, ceremonial paths, or messages to the gods?

After the flight, our representative will take you back to the Paracas town.
